

Rep. Coffee
New Member
Of Congress
Under Scrutiny

By JOHN W. HENDERSON
Washington, July 20, (AP) — Rep. John M. Coffee (D-Wash.) identified himself today as the Congress member whose affairs are under scrutiny by the Senate War Investigating committee because of a $2,500 check sent to his secretary by a war contractor.

The committee was waiting to see how Representative May (D-Ky.) would react to a subpoena for his appearance—to explain his connections with an Illinois munitions combine—when it became known that another Congressman was under investigation.

The committee did not name him, but in a statement made public today through his secretary at Tacoma, Coffee said he was the man. "I welcome an investigation on the entire matter," his statement added.

"Unscrupulous Tactics"

He said he received the check in the spring of 1941 as a campaign contribution from Elvond Anderson, Tacoma building contractor, by way of Paul A. Olson, who then was Coffee's secretary.

Coffee remarked that both Olson and Anderson ran for mayor of Tacoma in the primary this year and that Anderson was eliminated. He continued:

"For a defeated candidate, five years after making a campaign contribution, to attempt to alter the entire complexion of the transaction, can only be construed as stooping to the lowest form of unscrupulous tactics."

Coffee said "the campaign contribution was thoroughly discussed in the local press. The Department of Justice has previously investigated the charges and has announced there was no basis for action on its part."

Off On New Tack

Before Coffee issued his statement it had become known that the War Investigating committee was off on a tack involving three photographic documents:

1. A check for $2,500, from a war contractor engaged on a $1,000,000 (Please Turn to Page 7)

INVITES GROUPS
TO PARTICIPATE
IN PARADE HERE
TO HONOR VETS

Special invitations went out this week to civic, patriotic and fraternal organizations throughout the country to participate in the V-J Day anniversary parade here which opens the afternoon events of the county's formal Welcome Home to its veterans of World War II on Wednesday, August 14.

The invitations were issued by LeRoy H. Winebrenner, chairman of the parade committee.

Although industries and business organizations are not being invited individually to take part, Chairman Winebrenner said today that his committee will welcome floats or other forms of participation from any organizations in the county. Mr. Winebrenner will invite Littlestown parade floats in their community celebration parade to be staged there July 27 to participate in the county-wide procession here on August 14.

Mr. Winebrenner's letter of invitation follows:

Fellow Adams Countians:
On August 14 Adams county is going to stage a big Welcome Home celebration for the men and women of our county who served in uniform in World War II.

An important part of the program for that Home Coming celebration will be a patriotic parade in Gettysburg that afternoon.

We are inviting every civic and fraternal organization, every fire company, every patriotic group from one end of the county to the other to take part in that parade to help say to our servicemen and women "You did a great job and we're glad you're home."

We hope your organization will take part in the parade. You may be represented by having your members march in the column, by entering a float or any other appropriate means. In the case of fire companies, you are invited to place your fire fighting apparatus in the line of march. We expect at least eight county bands to be in the procession, but any organization that wishes to provide additional musical organizations is urged to do so.

The parade will form at 1 p. m. (DST) on Springs avenue in Gettysburg and will move promptly at 1:30 o'clock to Center Square, out Carlisle street to Lincoln avenue and then west to the College Campus where the remainder of the events for the day will be centered. Those who take part in the parade will get choice positions in front of the speakers' stand.

Let us all help to make this Welcome Home parade the biggest and finest procession ever staged by Adams county.

It is important that you notify me by July 30 what part your organization will take in the parade so that parade units can be planned.

Very truly yours,
LeRoy H. Winebrenner
Chairman, Parade Committee.

Superior Court
Upholds Sheely

The Pennsylvania Superior court in Philadelphia Friday refused to set aside the judgment and sentence imposed upon Robert and Wolfe Rosenberg, former Harrisburg attorneys, by Judge W. C. Sheely, of the Adams county court, in Dauphin county court, March 26, 1945, on charges of conspiracy and accessory before the fact to embezzlement by employee of a corporation.

After the lawyers agreed to immediate disbarment, President Judge Hargest paroled them March 28. Judge Hirst said that the court finds no defect in the indictment and nothing to justify arresting the judgment. One may be charged in an indictment both as principal and accessory to the same felony, he said.

YOUTH IS HELD FOR COURT ON PEACE CHARGES

Following a hearing before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder Friday night, at which more than 40 Latimore township neighbors of the defendants and complainants jammed the Squire's offices in the heat of a mid-summer evening, Ray F. Becker, 24, East Berlin R. 1, was held for court on two surety of the peace charges and re-committed to Adams county jail in default of $300 bail in each case.

Becker's father, Luther H. Becker, 60, East Berlin R. 1, also charged with surety of the peace, was discharged and the case dismissed for lack of evidence. The Becker's father and son, were arrested Monday by state police on complaints signed by Clifton S. Reynolds, Latimore township. On Tuesday a second charge, signed by Harry L. Divel, also Latimore township, was placed against the son.

Released from Jail
The elder Becker had been released from jail on his own recognizance on Tuesday on a doctor's certificate because of the state of his health.

Witnesses testified at the hearing Friday night that the younger Becker had on at least two occasions, one of them on July 4, sent threatening letters to Divel and Reynolds, threatening to shoot their sons. Other testimony was to the effect that Becker had on various occasions thrown stones at members of the two families, and had "used threats and curses against them."

To Sell Fair Grounds
Near East Berlin

What may be the last of the annual Farmers' fairs, conducted during the past forty years in the Farmers' Grove, midway between Abbottstown and East Berlin, will be held August 13 through 17. Ten days before the opening of the fair, the grounds will be placed on the block by the United Farmers' Association of Abbottstown.

George W. Lillich, president of the association, recalled that what was at first known as the Farmers' Picnic was started in about 1906. Originally it was a one-day affair. Later it became a fair with midway attractions and for nearly thirty years was operated on a weekly basis.

The fair has not been conducted since 1940. In 1941, plans were completed for the event but it was called off at the last minute due to infantile paralysis restrictions. The past few years there was no fair due to the war.

OPA In Life-Or-Death
Stage At Capitol Today

Washington, July 20 (AP)—The OPA entered the life-or-death stage on Capitol Hill today.

With Congress deadlocked, it became certain the nation will start out on a fourth week of uncontrolled prices and with no one knowing in what form, if any, OPA might be revived.

The House-Senate conference committee seeking a compromise stalemate as house members refused steadfastly to accept Senate bans against any further price ceilings on milk, meat, eggs and other basic foods.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky called the conferees to one more meeting today.

If this fails the OPA will be thrown open again in a House floor battle over whether to approve the Senate bill. President Truman, indicating a veto, has described the Senate measure as "terrible."

Tied In Knots

The conferees, after four days of wrangling, were tied in knots on the question of allowing OPA certain discretionary power in raising prices on manufactured articles as prescribed by a new pricing formula in the Senate bill.

Barkley refused to give up hope, saying "there is a haze over the horizon that looks like a glimmer of light."

Nothing Dull About
Bill But His Name

There's nothing dull about J. W. "Bill" Dull.

The former Dillsburg man purchased a restaurant in East Berlin in May. Things moved slowly, relatively, until this week.

Then he purchased the former James Shaffer stone quarry from the Bittinger company, leased the cement scale house at the quarry, put 15 men to work clearing out grass and cleaning up at the quarry, sold three lots for building purposes, arranged to have horses in the unsold part for rental this summer, purchased the Laymon Dick farm and arranged for remodeling of the building there, bought four cars and a truck, arranged for his prize horse to train at the York Fair grounds, traveled to Cumberland, Md., on business, entertained his employees and business associates.

It was reported he plans to rest a bit next week.

USES STAFFERS
GIVEN TRAINING
TO AID VETERANS

A week of intensive training for counselors on scientific techniques which will aid in placement of handicapped veterans ended today at the Manufacturers' Association building in York, Fred N. Roe, USES district manager, said.

The sessions, conducted by special trainers, under the direction of Mr. Roe, were designed to instruct counselors from local USES offices in this area in the latest techniques of the selective placement program. This program is a scientific method developed by the Employment Service for analyzing requirements of a specific job, physical capacities of a specific individual, and then matching the two in order to assure proper job placement. Through the use of this modern technique, USES offices have found that handicapped workers can be successfully placed in jobs where their performance equals or surpasses that of non-handicapped workers.

"The USES has been active for years in the improvement of placement techniques for handicapped job applicants," Mr. Roe said, "but the release of thousands of handicapped veterans from the armed forces has increased tremendously the importance of this activity."

Not Theoretical

"The selective placement program is not theoretical," Mr. Roe declared. "It has been tested in thousands of actual placement cases, and has demonstrated conclusively that physically handicapped veterans and other handicapped job seekers are sound investments for any employer when placed in the proper job. The philosophy of the Employment Service is that the handicapped worker must be judged according to his abilities, and not his disabilities."

"Through this training session, and similar training sessions throughout the state, we are emphasizing to our counselors the importance of the selective placement technique, and its value in encouraging employers to hire handicapped veterans and other handicapped persons not as a matter of charity, but as good, hardheaded business practice."

Counselors from the following local USES offices in this area attended the training meetings: Lancaster, York, Harrisburg, Gettysburg, Carlisle, Hanover, Chambersburg and Lebanon.

CARS COLLIDE
OFF HIGHWAY

Damage amounted to $400 and one man was injured Friday evening at 7 o'clock when two cars collided three miles south of Gettysburg on the Emmitsburg road.

Joseph G. Lyons, 24, Billings, Mont., the driver of one of the cars, suffered from shock and lacerations in the crash. He was taken to the Warner hospital.

Lyons told police he was driving north toward Gettysburg and at 4 o'clock was passing another car, also going north. When he drew alongside, the car he intended to pass began to speed and refused to allow the Lyons car to pass, the Montana man said.

Unable to get around the car and seeing an auto driven by John W. Perrie, 22, Woodstock, Md., approaching from the north, Lyons said he drove off the highway to avoid a collision. Perrie, at the same time, noticing Lyons also drove off the highway and the two cars crashed.

State police are continuing their investigation.

Open for business July 22. Central Service Station, 44 South Queen street, Littlestown.

LET CONTRACT FOR HOSPITAL
PARKING AREA

The board of directors of the Warner hospital at the July meeting Friday evening let a contract to John S. Teeter and Sons for the construction of a 100-car parking area, sidewalks, curbing, building a new exit driveway from the parking area and terracing the area in front of the old and new hospital structures.

The contract price is $9,248. Work is expected to begin on some of the concrete sidewalks next Monday. Earl Kump, contractor for the construction of the Musselman annex now being erected, will do the concrete work on a sub-contract from the Teeters.

There will be an entrance to the new parking area from the present driveway while a new exit driveway will be built. Terraces will separate the area and will be curbed as will the steps.

$90 Gift Announced

The board also authorized the laying of a new four-inch gas line across the hospital grounds from South Washington street to replace a present two-inch line which will be inadequate for the two gas furnaces and the large gas water heater which will be in use when the new building is finished. An oil burning furnace will be installed for an emergency heating system, the board said.

The directors acknowledged a $90 gift from the estate of the late Rev. Alexander P. Frantz, former superintendent at the Hoffman orphanage. No particular use was specified for the gift by the donor and it was placed in the building fund for the badly-needed addition to the hospital.

Activity reports for the hospital for May and June were received showing that the hospital has been handling a record number of patients this summer. The average number of patients per day in May was 50 and last month it was 58.

President C. A. Bixler presided at the meeting.

HANOVER ST. IS
RESURFACED; 3
OTHER PROJECTS

Gettysburg and Adams county's road resurfacing program is progressing under the supervision of J. W. Kendlehart, Jr., superintendent of maintenance of the Pennsylvania Highway Department.

The highway crew completed this week the resurfacing of a section of Hanover street from the York street intersection to Fourth street.

This job included the application of a two and one-quarter inch bituminous black top on the street from curb to curb, a distance of 38 feet; 671 tons of material were used on the project.

On Monday the highway crew will start work on the old Quaker Valley road, from a point one mile south of the Brysonia road to Flora Dale, north of Biglerville. It is a 2.8 miles stretch and will be 14.8 feet wide.

There will be a flexible type bituminous surface on an eight inch macadam road. Approximately 12,000 tons of material will be required to build the road. Two small bridges, 10-foot span, will also be constructed.

When this project is completed the highway crew will be shifted to the road from Arendtsville to Biglerville over what is known as the old Beecherstown road, a length of approximately two and one-half miles. A fourteen-foot concrete span will also be constructed there.

A 2,200-foot section of road in Abbottstown borough and Berwick township connecting the Abbottstown and Pine Run roads will also be resurfaced.

The Beecherstown and Abbottstown projects will have the same type surface as the Quaker Valley road.

ASKS QUESTIONS ABOUT RUSSIA'S HAND IN CHINA

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Renewal of the fighting between the Chinese Communists and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces along the strategic Yangtze river impelled this column yesterday to call attention to the danger that the bloody political dispute might have to be settled on the battlefield in a protracted civil war.

While that article was being written America's new ambassador to China, Dr. John Leighton Stuart, was presenting his credentials to the Generalissimo at China's summer capital, Kuling. Among those present for the ceremony was General George C. Marshall, President Truman's special envoy, and later Stuart and Marshall had a conference which presumably related to the effort to halt the warfare and bring peace to unhappy China.

Uncle Sam's attempts to reconcile the warring factions will continue but he will have performed a feat extraordinary if he succeeds, for he is dealing with two political isms which thus far have been irreconcilable. Moreover he is faced with many other difficulties, among which are the general backwardness and economic straits of this vast country of 500 millions.

Melting Pot of Troubles
General Ho Ying-chin, the generalissimo's top military expert who is now in the United States, defends his country's slowness in becoming progressive by citing that it was only as far back as 1910 that "China threw off the yoke of 5,000 years of Manchu despotism." That's a true bill, and one we shouldn't overlook in appraising the present situation.

This huge country which, in many remote areas is truly primitive, is a melting-pot for a witch's brew of troubles. For one thing China is a land of vast riches and terrible poverty—and that in itself is a mighty chasm to bridge. As the result of the protracted war against the invading Japanese the economic position is terribly bad. Inflation has been running riot for years until one wonders how even the rich can find the cash to maintain themselves. The prices of bare necessities are fantastic.

A mountainous complication is added by the fact that famine is sweeping many parts of the country. This is due to failure of crops, lack of seed and inability to secure sufficient imports. Millions of people are starving and untold numbers are dead from hunger. Whole villages are threatened with extermination. The position is so desperate in many areas that the people have been reduced to banditry and murder to secure food or the money with which to purchase it.

Moscow Connections
There you have the altogether grim setting for the fight between Chinese Communism and the Nationalist government. Even if the country had one undisputed government, the task of pulling the nation out of its tail-spin would be titanic.

The question of whether Chinese Communism is affiliated with Moscow will have a considerable effect on the trend of the struggle, as I see it. It's a remarkable thing that this point thus far hasn't had any formal official clarification. When General Ho Ying-chin was asked if there was any connection between the two he shot back tartly: "Better ask the Chinese Communists that."

Well, I've done exactly that in China and have made the inquiry from no less personage than General Chou En-lai, second in leadership of the Chinese Reds. He told me that the Chinese Reds weren't hooked to Moscow. Still you will find many competent observers who believe (but can't prove) that the Chinese Communists get inspiration and material aid from Russia.

The point is, of course, that if the Chinese Communists are indeed "on their own," the prospect of shortening the civil war might be somewhat brighter.

Sergeant Duhrkoff Sent To Harrisburg

Sgt. Walter Kurt Duhrkoff, who has been in charge of the local sub-station of the State Police since January, 1942, has been transferred to Headquarters Troop A, Second Squadron of the state police at Harrisburg, effective Monday, it was learned today.

He will be replaced here by Cpl. Joseph L. Pochyda, at present in command of the local sub-station.

Pfc. George Ackerson, who has been stationed here for various periods over the last seven years, is transferred to York as of Monday. All of the transfers are listed as temporary.

FINED $10 AND COSTS

Fred L. Hoffman, Reisterstown, Md., arrested Friday night by state police of the Gettysburg sub-station, was given a hearing later before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore, convicted on two charges, of reckless driving and of speeding, and was fined $10 and costs on each charge. Hoffman was arrested at 11 p. m. on the Baltimore pike.

EX-SOLDIER IS JAILED AFTER GIRL'S SLAYING

Deal Island, Md., July 20 (AP)—A 23-year-old former soldier was under guard in Peninsula General hospital at Salisbury today after the bizarre beach-party slaying of pretty Pansy Twigg, 19.

State police officials said Ross J. Abbott, wounded superficially in the throat and chin, admitted he shot Pansy in a fit of jealousy.

State Police Trooper J. J. Harbaugh and Somerset county deputy Sheriff Woodland Jackson, drove Abbott to the hospital after he walked into John W. Webster's filling station near here.

The officers said Webster told them:

"He was bleeding. He said 'take me to the law. I just shot my woman.'"

With Corporal Charles L. Andrews of the state police, Harbaugh and Jackson returned to find the girl's body lying on the beach. She had been shot three times.

Deputy Sheriff Jackson said he rounded up this story from witnesses:

Story Of Shooting

Pansy had gone swimming in Chesapeake Bay near the Twigg home with Carolyn Jean Mason, 19, and Dolores Wheatley, 16.

Abbott, a Purple Heart army veteran of the Italian campaign, appeared, brandishing a .32 calibre pistol. He warned Carolyn and Dolores away and they ran to the Twigg home for help.

Herbert Twigg, Pansy's father, and her cousin, Roland Twigg, ran to the beach. They were 15 or 20 feet away when Abbott shot three times. Two bullets hit Pansy and she crumpled to the sand.

Still waving the pistol, Abbott picked Pansy up and carried her into the shallow waters of the bay. He held her under the water for a time and then carried her back to the beach, where he fired a shot into her head.

Then, standing over her body, Abbott shot himself. Still holding the pistol, he walked away.

Neighbors said Abbott had been back from the army about a year and that he and Pansy "had been around pretty steadily" since then.

KALTENBACH DIED IN SOVIET PRISON CAMP

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, July 20 (AP)—The Russians informed U. S. Army headquarters today that Fred W. Kaltenbach, 51-year-old Iowa long sought by the Americans as a traitor for broadcasting Nazi war propaganda from Germany, died last October in a Soviet detention camp.

A Red army major general transmitted the information in a letter to the American Intelligence section, which previously had tried in vain to learn his fate after his arrest by the Russians more than a year ago.

Kaltenbach, the "Lord Hee Haw" of radio Berlin died of natural causes at a camp in the Soviet occupation zone of Germany, the letter said. The exact cause was not specified, but it was known that he had been ill with a heart ailment and asthma for at least 18 months before German fell.

Indicted for Treason

Kaltenbach was one of eight Americans indicted June 26, 1943, by a District of Columbia grand jury on charges of treason for broadcasting Axis propaganda during the war.

A native of Dubuque, Iowa, he held a master of arts degrees from the University of Chicago and a doctorate of philosophy from the University of Berlin. He specialized on affairs of Germany, where both his parents were born.

(He was discharged as a high school teacher in Dubuque after he organized a Nazi group among the students according to information in Washington. He was an army officer in the first World War, but after going to Germany he married a German girl and supported Hitler's cause.)

MARYLANDER FINED AFTER CHASE BY COP

An auto chase that at times reached the speed of 90 miles an hour and which extended from Littlestown to the service station near the Lee-Meade inn on the Emmitsburg road resulted in the arrest of Frederick Huffman, 52-year-old Reisterstown R. 1 resident on charges of speeding and reckless driving Friday evening about 9 o'clock.

A member of the state police of the Gettysburg sub-station was patrolling near Littlestown when the Maryland driver passed him headed north. The car was traveling at a high speed and the officer turned and began the pursuit. Traveling at speeds ranging up to 90 miles an hour, the officer was unable to gain on the motorist until they reached Gettysburg. The rear light on the Maryland car was out, the officer said. Coming in Baltimore street the Marylander slowed to a "mere" 64 miles an hour and the officer was able to gain on him.

At the intersection of Baltimore street and Steinwehr avenue the Marylander turned toward Emmitsburg. Whether or not he ran through a red light was unknown to the officer who said today he was too busy keeping his car on the road to look at lights.

"Dying" Wife Answers Phone
Finally near the Lee-Meade inn the Marylander slowed and stopped and the officer came up to him.

His wife was dying, Huffman told the officer. He had to get to Baltimore quickly because she had blood poisoning and it was just a matter of minutes until she died. If she died before he got there, he was going to sue.

The officer, touched by such solicitude, called the man's home at Reisterstown. The wife answered. "No," she told the officer, "I'm not dying of anything. I'm a little nervous, but outside of that I'm all right."

As a result the Marylander was taken before Justice of Peace John H. Basehore, where he paid $20 fines and the costs.

SEES CHANCE TO RESTORE PRICES

Washington, July 20 (P)—OPA Administrator Paul Porter said today that even if price controls are restored "perhaps some of the damage of the last three weeks can't be repaired."

Porter declared in a radio address (ABC network) that while OPA is "hard at work on plans to recover some of the ground that has been lost . . . even with the best of (price control) bills it isn't going to be an easy job putting the eggs back in the basket."

Asserting it "won't be a case of humpty-dumpty, whom all the horses and all the men couldn't put back together again," Porter added: "Some of the eggs are smashed and perhaps some of the damage of the last three weeks can't be repaired. But I feel confident, with effective authority from Congress, that we can recover a lot of the eggs that have rolled out of the price control basket—and put a stop to other price increases that are threatening."

Porter's doubt about whether "ground lost" can be recovered raised the question whether he still feels that all June 30 price ceilings can be re-established if controls are revived.

When they expired on July 1, Porter said flatly that if Congress did not specifically provide for previous ceilings in any revival bill, OPA would restore them by a general order.

Britons Rush To Purchase Bread

London, July 20 (AP)—British housewives besieged bake shops and rushed delivery trucks today in a mad scramble to buy bread before it joins the list of rationed foods Monday.

In some bakeries the loaves were sold as they left the ovens and supplies were exhausted quickly by women who bought as many as ten loaves and piled market baskets high with cakes and cookies.

Sales of flour, also to be rationed, were more than trebled and some shops were drained of supplies well before noon.

"This reckless buying means that others are having to go without," said one baker.

MORE BEER COMING

Pittsburgh, July 20 (P)—The beer shortage, says an official of the Western Pennsylvania Brewers' Association, is at its very worst right now. The official, Mead J. Mulvihill, said the demand for beer this summer has been 50 per cent greater than last year, with the probability that recent hot weather has increased that figure considerably. He said he expected the supply to improve in coming weeks.

GROMYKO SAYS "NO ONE SEEKS" ATOMIC SECRETS

New York, July 20 (AP)—Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, playing a stand-in role among the scientific advisers to the United Nations Atomic commission, was on record today as saying that "nobody is asking for secrets" of atomic knowledge at this stage of atomic control discussions.

The remark was given emphasis by the fact that the five quoted words were the only ones given in direct quotation in a 700-word official U.N. report of yesterday's secret meeting of the new 12-nation scientific and technical advisory committee on atomic energy.

The only reported point of conflict yesterday arose over Gromyko's proposal that the scientific committee chairmanship should pass back and forth between the representatives of the Netherlands and Poland. This was authoritatively said to have been beaten by ten votes, with Poland abstaining.

Temporary Chairman
Dr. Hendrik Anthony Kramers of the Netherlands was named temporary chairman.

Gromyko, who represents Russia in all political deliberations on atomic control, turned up among the scientists as a substitute for the Soviet scientific representative who now is observing the Bikini atom bomb tests.

In the official version of yesterday's meeting the Soviet delegate said "nobody is asking for secrets" and then was indirectly quoted as saying the time was ripe for discussion of the methods of exchange of scientific information on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Gromyko also told the scientists that his proposals for exchange of information, as stated more than a month ago in the presentation of Russia's counter-plan for handling atomic energy, were in no way in conflict with the views expressed by Bernard M. Baruch of the United States in a supplement July 12 explaining one phase of the proposed American program.

Keep Some Secrets
On the contrary, Gromyko said, Russia's proposals were well within the framework of the Baruch statement.

Gromyko's remarks apparently were prompted by Baruch's statement saying "it is not contemplated that, in these discussions, further information now held as secret would be disclosed."

Dr. Richard C. Tolman, the United States scientific representative, told the committee that information on peaceful uses and dangerous activities of atomic energy are inseparable because up to a certain point the same processes are used in both fields of research.

Expect Doering To Head 28th Division

Greensburg, Pa., July 20 (P)—Dr. Frank L. Doering, of Pittsburgh, was expected to be named national commander of the Society of the 28th Keystone Division at an election of officers today.

W. Charles Gallagher, of Wilkes-Barre, chairman of the nominating committee, reported there had been no opposition to his candidacy. Doering would succeed James T. Spence, of Harrisburg.

CONSERVATION IN PA. STUDIED

State College, Pa., July 20 (AP)—A three-pronged program for the furtherance of conservation in Pennsylvania—education, research and action—occupied the attention today of nearly 100 conservation leaders attending the first Pennsylvania conservation education conference.

John E. Doerr, assistant chief naturalist of the National Park Service, touched on all three points last night, emphasizing:

1. Education of elementary school pupils and progressing to college levels as part of the need of conserving resources for generations to come.

2. Expanded research facilities to find new uses of waste materials from the coal and lumber industries.

3. Concerted action to coordinate all points of the conservation program for the overall benefit of the commonwealth.

"You must not only learn conservation," he told the group, "but you must live it. It's got to be a living thing to do the best good to the most people."

He urged the conferees to prepare themselves not only "for demands they may already have anticipated but also for some which may seem impossible to imagine at this time."

COLLEGE WILL

1942. A codicil, dated February 28, 1946, revoked this trust fund and provided that after payment of several bequests, one of them to Margaret A. Swartz, Gettysburg, and another to Estelle Shadel, or their survivors, the executors, the Berks County Trust company, Reading, were to pay the principal to Gettysburg college for the establishment of scholarship funds, "or such other uses as the college may see fit."

The death of Annie M. Swartz prior to the death of her sister gave her property to Cora S. Swartz. Copies of both wills have been filed at the office of the register and recorder here.

Merit Raise Plan Going To Governor

Harrisburg, July 20 (P)—A proposal for merit raises for more than 40,000 state employees, taking into account the rising cost of living, will be laid before Governor Martin next week, it was learned today.

The report was prepared by a cabinet committee headed by Dr. Edward B. Logan, budget secretary, which has completed a six-month study of the commonwealth's entire wage structure.

The study was made both from the angle of merit raises and the cost of living, particularly as it affects the low salaried employees, "an administration source disclosed. "It will be in the governor's hands the first thing next week."

George I. Bloom, the governor's secretary, confirmed a few days ago that the pay study is under way after a conference here of a delegation of liquor store employees from Pittsburgh on the salary question with himself and liquor board Chairman Frederick T. Gelder.

Martin recently has opposed blanket increases and has called for merit raises instead.

Robert B. Rau, secretary to Dr. Henry H. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college.

Mr. Campbell is a graduate of Gettysburg high school, and is an actor. The couple expect to make their home in Hollywood, Calif. Miss Seibold was in advertising.

Extension Club To Meet Outdoors

Instead of holding a regular business meeting with speakers, indoors, for their July gathering, the Adams County Senior Extension club will meet next Thursday evening at 8 p. m. at the National Park museum picnic grounds.

There will be a brief business session, presided over by the president, Fred Geiselman, Hanover R. 4.

The club members will hold a wiener roast and enjoy a program of sports and games, including a softball game, horseshoe pitching, etc.

THE SHOCK OF HER LIFE

Fresno, Calif., (P)—Three-year-old Sharon Cook isn't much interested in that old saying about a burned child shunning fire. She would amend the aphorism to apply to cooled children as she was being treated today for abrasions received when she backed into an electric fan to beat the heat.

The Elks had little difficulty in disposing of their opponents 8 to 2 and 6 to 2 in the double-header. In the Aires-Barbers contest the west ends started like a ball of fire with four runs in the first inning and then watched the Barbers go ahead with runs in the second, third, fourth and fifth innings that gave them their six tallies. The Aires were one behind going into the seventh, then pounded across the three runs for victory.

Boxing Show In York On July 30

An eight round main event bringing together Johnny Fry, Chester, Pa., Irishman, and Bobby Lee, rapidly rising Baltimore 140 pounder, has been announced for Promoter Norman Clock's inaugural fight show at the West York ball park to be held July 30. Boxing fans who like to see the leather throw fast and hard should enjoy the forthcoming scrap as both Fry and Lee rely mainly on aggressive two-fisted attacks to augment their victory sides of the ledger.

Fry, who graduated from the amateurs as a Golden Glove Champion in 1944, has won 17 of his 21 pro fights. Of his 17 wins, 12 have been via the kayo route.

Lee, who has established himself as a great favorite with Baltimore fight lovers, has dropped only one decision in his 17 pro fights, that to the great Charlie Milan, recent conquerer of Cleo Shane. Lee has won six of his victories through knockouts. Fighting at the Century AC in Baltimore last Monday night, Lee flattened Washington's Bill Terry midway in the second round.

York's own returned GI, Ernie Calhoun, will don the gloves again after over three years in the army in the semi-windup scheduled for six rounds.

In other games, the league-leading Wilmington Blue Rocks walloped the Trenton Giants 12-5, Harrisburg defeated York 10-7, and Allentown edged Lancaster 11-9.

Tonight's games: Allentown at Sunbury; Lancaster at Trenton; Wilmington at Harrisburg, and York at Hagerstown.

Chuck Taylor Wins Judges' Decision

New York, July 20 (AP)—A hot night and a so-so attraction produced one of Madison Square Garden's smallest crowds in years last night when only 6,607 fans paid $21,350 to watch Chuck Taylor of Coalport, Pa., win a close 10-round decision from toughy Tony Pellone of New York.

The two young welters waltzed through the first five rounds but staged an exciting slugfest in the final stages with Taylor copping the votes of two judges and the referee voting a draw, Taylor weighed 144½ to 141½ for Pellone.

PLAYERS SEEK CLAUSE CHANGE

New York, July 20 (AP)—It looks as though the biggest job the baseball owners and league presidents will have on their hands when they meet with the six players' representatives here on August 5 will be to convince their opposite numbers that the so-called "reserve clause" is a great thing for everybody and should be retained.

It seems certain that the six player-spokesmen—three from each league—will enter this, the first such meeting in diamond history, bearing a mandate from their fellow performers to take a whack at the clause which is the backbone of organized ball.

The players never have liked the clause, for the reason that it binds them for their playing life to the club which first gets their name on a contract. Unless the player is sold or traded, he can never hope to better his situation, become a member of a team which pays higher salaries.

This clause admitted inequalities, and it ripples the star who is drawing down perhaps $10,000 a year from one of the less prosperous clubs to realize that players no better than he are making twice that with, say, the Yankees or the Detroit Tigers.

The player either can accept the contract offered him by his owners, or he can hold out and make a fight of it each spring, or he can retire from baseball. Dickie Kerr, the great little White Sox pitcher, quit baseball for life when he was at the height of his career, and Eddie Roush once remained out of the Giants lineup for a year.

Sculling Honors At Stake Today

Philadelphia, July 20 (AP)—The proverbial "luck of the Irish" was a cliché to be called on today in the Schuylkill river rowing competition for America's national single sculling honors.

Challenging Art Gallagher for his crown in the principal event of the closing day of the 72nd annual national regatta is Jack Kelly, 19-year-old fellow Philadelphian. Joe Angyal, New York fireman who was 1942 champion but did not defend when Gallagher won the title in 1943, Frank Silvio, also of New York, and Howard McCreesh, Philadelphia, make up the field against Gallagher and Kelly.

Kelly, who defeated Gallagher in the semi-finals of the Diamond Sculls in England two weeks ago, only to lose to Frenchman Jean Spehriades in the final, qualified for the national by an easy win yesterday in the regatta opening day association singles.

35-Year-Old Car Returning To Use

Titusville, Pa., July 20 (AP)—If residents of Titusville are soon appalled by a vision from the past, they need not be too alarmed—it will merely be E. T. Roberts taking a spin in his 1911 White touring car.

He says the auto will be ready to take the road as soon as he gets two more inner-tubes. He got four non-skid tires and two tubes in Detroit following the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the motor industry.

The old White has a right-hand drive and a four-cylinder engine of French design, with four speeds forward. It has been off the highways since 1927.

BILL ZUBER IN THIRD WIN FOR BOSTON RED SOX

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)

Bill (Sinkin Ball) Zuber, a luckless pitcher who couldn't get anybody out for the Yankees, is proving to be a $7,500 bargain find for the pennant-bound Boston Red Sox.

Picked up for the nominal waiver fee when New York cut him loose the 31-year-oldster has earned three straight decisions for his benefactors and hasn't been beaten yet.

Joe McCarthy hung onto Zuber long after most of the fans had given up on him, spotting him here and there along the way against the right kind of opposition. Last year the Yanks couldn't get a run for him and he was shutout no fewer than seven times.

Beat Chicago 9-2

Three relief jobs for New York produced one loss and he hadn't worked in almost a month when Bill Dickey let him go in mid-June. His first Boston appearance was a gaudy three-hit, Cleveland shutout. Although he was batted out by the A's he came back to trim Cleveland in his third start and then added a four-hit, 9-2 decision over Chicago yesterday to his impressive record.

Boston's phenomenal Fenway Park record against the western clubs now reads 28 won, 2 lost (both to Bobby Feller).

With the Yankees and St. Louis Browns unscheduled, the Red Sox upped their lead over second place New York to 1½ games.

Hal Newhouse chalked up his 18th victory in an unimpressive performance against Washington, 10-5, allowing 12 hits.

Greenberg's Triple

Hank Greenberg's tremendous triple with the bases loaded and Birdie Tebbets' two-run double helped the Tigers overcome a 5-0 Washington lead and go on to win Mickey Vernon's four hits in five at bats enabled him to regain the batting lead from Williams.

Barrel-chested Pat Seerey of Cleveland hammered two home runs, his 15th and 16th, in the Indians' 6-1 romp over the Athletics.

Brooklyn came out of its disastrous slump long enough to down Cincinnati, 8-4, and go into a first-place tie with the Cardinals who were washed out of their night tilt with the Phillies after three scoreless innings of a pitching duel between Johnny Beazley and Hugh Mulcahy.

Rookie Warren Spahn continued his impressive lefthanded work, dumping Chicago, 6-1, to give Boston its third straight western series.

Pittsburgh and New York were not scheduled.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, July 20 (AP)—Yesterday it was a baseball man bemoaning the fact that returning war veterans aren't doing as well as expected.

Today it's a boxing aficionado wondering if the Tony Zale-Rocky Graziano middleweight title scrap will furnish further proof of the same trend. . . . Ring expert Nat Fleischer points out that Billy Conn, without benefit of tuneups after leaving the army, made a miserable showing against Joe Louis, "who definitely has slipped". . . . Red Cochrane stiffened five opponents in tuneups after leaving the navy, but the first time he met a tough rival, Rocky Graziano, it was "boom" and Red was all through. . . . Zale has chalked up six easy knockouts this year and now he's about to meet his first tough guy—that same Graziano. . . . Slipping or not, Fleischer adds, these guys still have to be the headline fighters, because not one first class boxer was developed in the armed forces.

A FLAT STORY

Bob Higgins, Penn State football coach, read where 19-year-olds will be drafted next year and figured it out this way: "That means I won't have the freshmen next year that I don't have this year." (Penn State is farming out its first year men to other state schools). . . . "I think," Bob added, "I'll apply for a job in the English lit apartment." . . . Just another apartment hunter.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The International league's best major league prospects, according to Prexy Shag Shaughnessy, aren't players but a couple of umpires, Arthur Gore and Douglas Robb. . . . "They've been working together and they both concentrate on the game every minute they're on the field," he says. . . . The Los Angeles Rams will take over the Hollywood baseball park as a practice field after the Pacific coast league season ends. Finally one of Pants Rowland's clubs busts into a major league. . . . The world's largest city, New York, won't be represented in the team contest in the coming public links golf tournament. . . . Notre Dame's football team will travel to all its "away" games by air this fall, which means flying to New Orleans, Baltimore, New York, Iowa City and Champaign, Ill.

TO KEEP TRYING

And there it collapsed for this session. Reason: 38 Senators voted for it, 35 voted against. This was just a majority vote in its favor. A two-third vote was needed.

(If the two-thirds vote had been won in the Senate, the proposal would have had to go over to the House. Time is short. Congress wants to adjourn soon. So it probably would not have reached a House vote.)

But women who have sponsored the idea through the years, a little breathless by the defeat yesterday, rallied their determination quickly and said they'd try again next year.

One woman said: "We'll just keep on trying until we get it through."

Not all women agree it's a good idea to have equal rights with men, and therefore oppose the whole plan. They gave some reasons:

1. Women are physically weaker than men. The majority of states have some laws recognizing this and giving women certain benefits men don't get.

EQUAL RIGHTS FOR WOMEN ARE NOT VERY NEAR

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 20 (AP)—Women are going to try again to get equal rights with men. But they'll have to wait awhile. They've already been waiting at least 23 years for Congress to act.

What they wanted, and still want, is in amendment to the constitution which, by becoming the law of the land, will say men and women should have equal rights everywhere in this country.

To get such an amendment, this would have to happen:

1. Two-thirds of the members of both House and Senate would have to approve the idea. Getting a majority vote in either House is not so tough. But getting a two-thirds vote is very tough.

Might Take years

2. If both Houses of Congress approved the proposed amendment, it could not become part of the constitution until 36 of the State Legislatures also okayed the idea.

(It might take years, if ever, for those 36 State Legislatures to get around to doing it.)

Women who want this amendment, first got the proposal introduced in Congress and there it always seems to get sidetracked.

Committees—where the proposal had to go before it could come up on the floor of House or Senate for a vote—might approve. But, until yesterday, one session of Congress after another died and the proposal never got up to the floor. Yesterday it did. In the Senate.

TO KEEP TRYING

And there it collapsed for this session. Reason: 38 Senators voted for it, 35 voted against. This was just a majority vote in its favor. A two-third vote was needed.

REPORT MANY KILLED DURING BOLIVIAN COUP

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE

Buenos Aires, July 20 (AP)—Advices filtering through a tight censorship in Bolivia indicated today that many persons—one report said approximately 100—had been killed in an attempt to overthrow the government of President Gualberto Villarroel.

Officials of the Bolivian embassy here said the revolutionary uprising occurred Thursday afternoon when a group of heavily armed students staged a rebellion at the University of La Paz which was crushed within a few hours.

However, a dispatch from Arequipa, Peru, quoted private sources there as saying that that situation remained chaotic throughout the day yesterday, with bloody fighting and many persons killed.

The attempted coup was the second in Bolivia in the last five weeks.

Coup Crushed in June

Bolivia broke off communications with Buenos Aires at 3 p. m., Thursday.

A dispatch from Arica, Chile, quoted the "La Plata radio of Sucre, Bolivia," as saying that approximately 100 persons were killed and tion would mean scrapping all the state laws in which women are given special consideration. This would be an almost chaotic job, they say.

So the whole subject is pretty controversial even though the Democratic and Republican parties, in their 1944 presidential campaign platforms, said they favored an equal rights amendment to the constitution.

Some laws, like those forbidding employment of women in mines, may be considered as intended to protect women from dangerous work.

Might Lose Benefits

But then sponsors of the amendment say that things like this—prohibiting night work for women—are intended to deprive women of work.

They point to laws which they consider discriminatory against women:

Discrimination in jury service, holding public office, property rights, inheritance rights, the right to own and control one's earnings.

But those who fear an amendment would mean scrapping beneficial laws for women, point to these as benefits:

Labor laws giving women special privileges; mothers' pensions; laws compelling husbands to support their wives.

This is a fight which probably will go on for years.

Stranahan Leaves Nelson Far Behind

Chicago, July 20 (AP)—Only one pre-tourney favorite, muscular Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, Ohio, amateur, was in the driver's seat today as the $10,000 Chicago victory national open golf meet moved into the second round at arduous Medinah country club.

Stranahan and Professional E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., explored three-under-par 68's yesterday to leave defending champion Nelson and leading 1946 money-winner Ben Hogan gulping their dust in the 72-hole test.

While Stranahan, the 23-year old millionaire's son who won the Kansas City invitational last week-end, and 36-year-old Harrison, whose last major conquest was the 1945 St. Paul open, were taking tricky Medinah apart, Nelson and Hogan floundered with 73 and 75 respectively.

150 wounded at the Bolivian capital of La Paz Thursday.

The broadcast said casualties included revolutionaries and soldiers called out to put down the revolt, and added that Bolivian pro-government newspapers placed the blame on Communist influences imported from Chile.

The Bolivian embassy here did not mention any casualties.

Bolivia has been in a state of political unrest since last June 13, when the government crushed an attempted coup d'etat in which army flyers attempted to bomb La Paz. The government subsequently announced that five persons were killed in that revolt.

About 85,000 illiterates in the Army have been taught to read and write.

Today's Talk

ONE'S PHILOSOPHY OF LIFE

Every one of us, unconsciously, works out a personal philosophy of life, by which we are guided, inspired, and corrected, as time goes on. It is this philosophy by which we measure out our days, and by which we advertise to all about us the man, or woman, that we are.

In thought, expression, and act, this philosophy is woven about us, like a halo. It becomes a radiating influence by which we are judged, loved, and by which we establish ourselves as an entity. It cannot be easily described. It's too personal. But it is vital to our success and to our happiness as human beings, trying to get along by making our lives worthy.

There is a little book, published by Paul B. Hoeber Inc., Medical Book Department of Harper & Brothers, New York, that is one of the most inspiring books I have ever read. It is called "A Way of Life," and is an address given by the famous surgeon, Dr. William Osler, to students of Yale University. It was delivered April 20th, 1913, but the message is as fresh and compelling today as when first delivered. It concerns habit, and how this one thing may become the determining factor in all character building. I wish that it might be read by millions. It would help to make this a better world, by making better human beings.

Me make, or break, ourselves. We alone are the controllers of our fate and fortune. We cannot think a single thought, without its having a bearing upon our acts, and procedure of life. These thoughts are tied, and woven, into the very fabric of our lives. Arranged, and given precedence, they form the substance of a vital personality, that gives color, force, and completeness to whatever philosophy is evolved.

It takes but a brief time to scent the life philosophy of anyone. It is defined in the conversation, in the look of the eye, and in the general mien of the person. It has no hiding place. It's like the perfume of the flower—unseen, but known almost instantly. It is the possession of the successful, and the happy. And it can be greatly embellished by the absorption of ideas and experiences of the useful of this earth. To you, who may read this brief talk, I commend and recommend a personal philosophy of life, that can become a guide for you throughout every emergency and vicissitude.

THE BIG FISH

The big fish said: "Just look at me! For I'm as clever as can be. The reason I'm of such a size Is I have studied to be wise. I've learned to tell, with just a look, When in the minnow there's a hook."

The big fish said: "Mistake I may. But hooked, I always get away. I'm not like foolish fish that grab At every beetle, worm or crab. When I suspect that things aren't right My good sense tells me not to bite."

Yet, one day from a rod and reel There came a most enticing meal. It promised more than any fish Had dared to dream of or to wish. Though lesser fish would none of it,

The big one fell for it—and bit.

"Ah!" said the man at close of day, "Not all the big ones get away. Of men and fishes this is true: The greatest can be foolish, too!"

What appeals most just now is a five-day week-end.

Low fuel pump pressure or spasmodic delivery of fuel may not be an indication that the pump is faulty, which is one reason so many replacements of this unit fail to produce results. If there is an obstruction in the fuel line from tank to pump the latter can't do a good job. Sometimes the line may be pinched or collapsed. A common point of clogging is in the fitting at the tank.

Efficient—Or Is It?
When is an engine in good condition?

Sounds like a foolish question, but it is interesting to note how many motorists fail to recognize the signs of motor efficiency. One owner actually thought there was something wrong with his engine just because it stopped too abruptly when he switched off the ignition. That, of course, meant that it had good compression and snug bearings. Then there was the fellow who patted his engine on the head because it started so promptly. Later he found out that the carburetor was set for much too rich a mixture. He learned this when the fouled up spark plugs started making starting quite difficult.

One of the best tests for efficiency is to run a mile in high gear very slowly—around five miles per hour. See if the engine loads up and starts bucking. But of course make sure that the timing is normally advanced before you make the test. Then step on the gas. A good engine should accelerate smoothly, without jerking. There should be no smoke at the exhaust when the throttle is suddenly closed.

The Indianapolis Speedway recently served as a proving ground for a racing car equipped with a rocket unit. . . . Way back in 1910 the first fluid-cushioned clutch made its appearance. . . . Of seventeen famous names in the pioneer automobile world only six have currently manufactured cars to bear their names. A new driving test where in operators see before them an actual series of traffic scenes shows that men are more skillful than women when it comes to handling a car. . . . But skill itself is not considered to be the basis of safety a wheel since accident statistics do not provide any orchids for the male sex. . . . Postponement of a new front-drive car makes it plain that major changes in cars are not going to get too enthusiastic a reception in the next year or two.

Mechanic Joe Speaking
"Just because you need to have a job done over again is no reason to suspect that your repairer hasn't been up to his usual standard. A lot of the trouble in service these days is that owners have forced us to think that there is just one cause of every trouble. Actually there may be several.

"There are, for instance, more than 20 reasons why front wheels shimmy. One list gives fifty reasons for overheating. When you consider that a car can easily be troubled with several conditions at the same time you have the answer to why it is so often a repair job seems to be a repeater. Actually it is an entirely new job."

Sometimes economy and safety do not mix. A case in point is using the hand control of the throttle for steady running on the open road. This avoids the waste of pedal pumping, but it may result in more difficulty slowing down when you have to make an emergency stop.

Three To Remember

Instead of trying to find gasoline that better fits the adjustment of your car's carburetor why not try to make the carburetor fit your usual gas to better advantage? The low speed adjustment covers more territory than you may imagine.

If you find it difficult to slow down the car the chances are that the engine's idling speed is too high. Until you can have it idled slower de-clutch sooner when braking.

Don't ever reverse brake shoe return springs because the chances are that they are of different tensions. Sometimes a different color is used to distinguish the two.

Time was when you could crawl under your car and take down the engine pan with not more than a trace of ambition, but today even if you have the will you may find that you don't know the way. When one reader complained of difficulty doing this seemingly simple job I checked the service dope on his particular car and found that in addition to disconnecting the front absorbers, draining the cooling system, disassembling the front engine supports and removing the steering tierod the job called for raising the engine four inches. Then when the pan was replaced the front end of the car would have to be rechecked.

Makes A Poor Alarm

It's odd how we all tend to live by assumptions when careful analysis of the facts fails to justify such action. I was thinking of this when a friend announced that he didn't bother to lock his car when leaving it in the driveway in front of his house because he could always hear the engine being cranked. "The self-starter is as good as an alarm," he explained. Or almost!

Several of us disappeared from the group, went outside, got into his car, placed the gears in reverse, turned on the switch and touched the starter button. The car started backwards very slowly and with none of the racket of a free spinning starter. Suddenly the motor caught and the car zoomed to the street. (Please Turn to Page 5)

MARSHALL'S CHINA MISSION CALLED FAILURE

By SPENCER MOOSA

Shanghai, July 20 (AP)—Diplomatic sources privately agreed today that U. S. Gen. George A. Marshall's peace mission to China had failed. Seemingly confirming the opinion, the nationalist government began moving more men toward the fighting fronts and the communists were reported reinforcing their positions. General Marshall was believed unlikely to have the opportunity to confer with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in the summer capital at Kuling, where the general went with U. S. Ambassador Dr. John Leighton Stuart.

A similar pessimistic attitude was expressed at the communist headquarters in Nanking when a check was made on whether or not Communist Chief Negotiator Gen. Chou En-Lai would visit Kuling to talk with Chiang. The official asked the question countered with the comment:

May Return in August

"There's nothing left to talk about." Meanwhile, quarters professing to be "in the know" predicted Marshall would return home around the middle of August after making a final effort to retrieve the steadily deteriorating situation.

This view coincides with the persistent reports that the government has abandoned all hopes of a peaceful settlement and intends to launch an all-out attack against the communists in September.

The rumors also are persistent that the attack would have been mounted some weeks ago save for the vigorous protestations by Marshall.

It is predicted that if the U. S. Envoy abandons the peace mission as a bad job, American forces in China will be speedily withdrawn.

job, to the secretary of a Congress member.

2. A letter from the secretary to the contractor expressing gratitude for assistance, and noting that expenses of the member's office in Washington were great.

3. A letter from the member to the contractor saying that the "slip of paper" given to his secretary was going to relieve a great deal of the member's worries.

The correspondence was understood to disclose that the contractor had encountered difficulties in dealing with one of the government departments and had gone to the House member for help.

"Absolutely Necessary"

The latest effort to bring May, chairman of the House Military Committee, before the war profits inquiry for public testimony was a formal summons calling for his appearance next Tuesday. Chairman Mead (D-N. Y.) explained that this action was taken "only because it is absolutely necessary for us to do so."

May, the chairman said, had been given "ample opportunity" to appear for questioning without being formally subpoenaed.

Committee members discussed the possibility that May would stand on his constitutional immunity as a member of Congress and refuse to appear, but they said no decision would be made as to their next step until it was determined what May intended to do.

In accepting the subpoena yesterday, May made no comment. Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Mead agreed that the committee will take "all the steps the constitution will allow us" to compel May's appearance.

They also agreed that if May chooses to stand on his constitutional rights neither the committee nor Congress itself could force him to testify so long as Congress is in session.

The constitution prohibits the arrest of a member while Congress is in session except for treason, a felony or breach of the peace.

Members of the committee said they wished to question May concerning testimony that he interceded with the War Department on behalf of a midwestern munitions combine. Also that he participated in the operations of the Cumberland Lumber company of Prestonburg, Ky., which received advances from the combine totaling $48,000 for lumber which was not delivered. Part of the advance was returned. May has denied that he profited in any way from these activities.

Someone To Believe In

By Helen R. Woodward

Chapter 4

Rocky Alverson paused, ran his hand into his pocket, drew out an object. "I also waited," he said, "to give you this. I happened to buy your father's desk and before it was loaded and taken away, I idly opened one of the drawers. I'm sure you must have forgotten to remove this."

He placed a small photograph in her trembling hand. Through the blindness of tears she gazed at the snapshot of her father, her mother and herself as a small child. On some forgotten, carefree holiday they had been, and all were laughing. More than anything could have done, this small picture brought back days that had been happy and—trustful—and upright! More than anything else she would rather have had this. "Forgive me," she said, and turned away, striving for control.

"Don't mind me," Rocky said in a very gentle tone. But presently she turned back with a gallant, courageous gesture and with that impulsive generosity that had always been her greatest charm, held out her hand. "Thank you very much," she said, as his brown fingers closed over hers.

Then she was brisk and efficient, as if the little incident had never happened. "You wanted to see me about something—important." "Yes," he began, then stopped as if finding it a little difficult to go on. "You see, I—I remembered your singing the other night at the Melody Club. I don't know how you're fixed financially, but if you're in need of a job, I'd like to take you on as a soloist with the orchestra. The salary would be forty dollars a week."

She would have laughed at the idea of singing professionally at the Melody Club a week ago, but now it did not seem at all preposterous. And forty dollars a week would be a good salary for a girl who had no business training. If she had needed it, she would have jumped at the offer. But thank heaven, she didn't need it! There was always the comforting thought of Annie Hewitt in the background of her mind. They'd be married soon now—Annie would know she needed a haven of protection and would ask her to set the day soon. And then life would be almost as it had been before—except for that horrible new sense of unworthiness which her father had bequeathed her and which she knew would take a lifetime of living down.

Now she smiled at Rocky—and would have been horrified if she had known that it was with a little condescension—"Thank you, Mr. Alverson. It's very kind of you to think me capable of holding down a job like that. And I assure you if I really needed it I'd be only too happy to take you up on it. But as it happens—well you see, I'm going to be married soon—"

"I see," Rocky smiled too. His white teeth flashed in his tanned face—where did he get such a beautiful tan? Then she remembered his estate outside of town where it was reputed he spent much of his time. For the first time she realized that he was younger than she had always thought—surely not over thirty—and that his appearance must make him very attractive to women. No doubt he had a string of them! Men like that always do! "Men like that!" What did she really know about Rocky Alverson?

"Then there is no use in my lingering," he said now as they reached the great front door. "If you're ready to leave, I'll be happy to give you a lift wherever you're going in my car."

She did not want to go with him. She did not want these last moments when she shut the door upon her old home to be spent with Rocky Alverson. But there seemed no way out of it without being ungracious and rude. Perhaps, after all, it was better this way. With Rocky Alverson looking on she would be sure not to give way to her silly emotions.

"Thank you," she said. "My bags have already been sent over to my Aunt Harriet's, and I'll be glad of the ride over."

She stepped out on the porch beside him, and as if sensing her inward turmoil, he walked on leaving her to close the big old doors alone. But almost instantly she was beside him, walking fast, breathing rapidly as if running away from something too painful to look on any longer.

He helped her into the low, low car standing at the curb and she did not look back as they drove away. Had she known that he was consumed with pity and admiration for her courage, she would probably have broken down. But glancing at his imperturbable profile she could guess nothing of what he was thinking. So that after a moment the tumult in her breast subsided and she felt a calmness stealing over her. That it was a calmness tinged with despair did not make it any the less welcome.

Rocky drove slowly, giving her time to get control of herself before she reached her aunt's apartment. He knew something of Harriet Lawrence and did not think it would comfort Greer any to have her aunt witness any weakness on her part. He was quiet, leaving her with her thoughts, only suggesting as they neared the business district that they stop somewhere for coffee.

"No, thank you, I'd rather get on if you don't mind," Greer said. "I had breakfast—hours ago."

"If you should ever need that job I mentioned," he said, "please don't hesitate to let me know. It's conceivable that if you really need work, it might be hard to find it in this town. People are narrow. They don't forget!"

Her face flushed crimson, her slim body trembled. "That my father was not honest and that consequently his daughter is not to be trusted? Is that what you mean? Thank you, Mr. Alverson, for reminding me of that! I shan't forget it!"

And she was gone, swallowed up into the cavernous doorway of the apartment house. For a long moment he stood looking after her, a sardonic grin twisting his features. Of course, he reflected, she had no way of knowing that he was simply referring to himself, and that the town had been too narrow ever to forget his humble origin!

The great outdoors, some French farce, and some American domestic farce are on the fare next week at Warner Brothers' Majestic theater here.

Come Monday and Tuesday Mrs. Burgess Meredith, better known as Paulette Goddard, will regale the customers with a French bedroom comedy, in complete costume reminiscent of the can-can period, entitled, "Diary of a Chambermaid." Francis Lederer plays a "heavy" and Burgess Meredith plays the part of a septuagenarian retired army officer whose heart is still young even if his hair is graying.

WEDNESDAY
The French farce is followed by another in the series of Bumstead shows, this time depicting the efforts of Dagwood to solve the housing shortage. Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake play the lead roles and it is entirely possible that much of the housing shortage was caused by Dagwood's efforts. The title: "Blondie's Lucky Day."

THURSDAY
Old timers, like this reviewer, will probably go to see the picturization of "God's Country" to see Buster Keaton, who was one of the great comics a good many years ago. Any picture that combines profiles of the giant Redwoods and Keaton's arctic countenance is worth seeing for an old timer. Robert Lowery, Helen Gilbert and William Farnum have leads in the James Oliver Curwood story.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton

"Janie Gets Married" follows the fortunes of the Conway family, allegedly typical American clan of Hortonville, USA through the first year of "Janie's" married life. Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton have the leads in the show which depicts Janie's attempts to please her husband by such devices as "always let your husband turn out the lights at night—it makes him feel masterful."

College Prexy's Son Found Dead

Grove City, Pa., July 20 (P)—Richard Ketter, 26-year-old son of Dr. Weir C. Ketter, president of Grove City College, was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in the garage at his home here yesterday, deputy coroner F. M. Bleakney reported.

The deputy coroner said the youth, who had expected to be admitted to the Mercer county bar next month, apparently was overcome as he worked on his automobile with the garage doors closed.

Ketter was a graduate of Grove City college and the University of Michigan Law school and had been studying law in the office of Attorney John V. Wherry. He was discharged from the navy in May after two and a half years' service.

The next International Oil Exposition will be held at Tulsa, Okla., in 1947. The expositions were suspended during the war.
